Excerpt: . . . 11 wind up in the pockets of the radicals that we are worried about. It limits our options and limits our leverage in dealing with national security threats, because oil-rich countries can stand up to us and oil-dependent countries are afraid to stand with us. And it undercuts our hopes, in my view, of advancing democracy and freedom because repressive regimes, swimming in a sea of high-priced oil, can resist pressures to reform as we see right now in Iran. To cite just one example, Iran's most recent threats to disrupt oil exports - as a direct response to our attempts to deal with their nuclear ambitions - was immediately translated into an increase in oil prices, a jump to 73 a barrel. Not just economic forces, but political conflicts, drive the markets. I will not repeat...
