From being fiery and mtractable, he will become pliant and gentle; and, fearful that, during his transport, he has broken the rules of decency and decorum, he will make a thousand concessions to re-establish himself in your good opinion, the least of which he would not have borne the mention of before; whereas, if, on the first provocation, you had flung away with resentment, you had not only lost your point, but your interest in the man for ever. SAFEST TO DKAL WITH THOSE ON ONE S OWN LEVEL. It is best, however, to confine your dealings, if possible, to such as are pretty near on your own level; where dependence may be mutual, and no great consequence to be feared from the overbearmg humor of a would-be lion, without teeth or claws. But where such a temper happens to meet...
