The first tests were made at the request of the Northumberland and Durham Dairy Farmers Association, and these were elaborated at the instigation of the Northumberland County Council, which desired that some reliable information on the subject should be placed before the dairy farmers of that County. It was soon felt, however, to be desirable that work of a more permanent character should be carried out; and, as the Northumberland station at Cockle Park is mainly engaged in work connected with farm crops and the rearing and feeding of live stock, the authorities of Armstrong College submitted a scheme for experiments in dairy work to the Durham County Council. This scheme was accepted, and as a result the work is now being done at Offerton Hall, about 3 miles from Sunderland. This farm is about 580 acres in extent, 165 acres of which are pasture, and there is a herd of 50 dairy cows. By arrangement with Mr. James McLaren, the tenant of the farm, the College authorities may at any time select 10 cows for an experiment, and place them in a separate cow-house, while experiments in calf-rearing may also be undertaken. A laboratory and a weigh-bridge have been provided. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Find...
